Confusion.
So many days I felt unsure about how to properly manage my child's education amongst other aspects of everyday life.

Process.
We figured out how to approach homeschool through trial and error. We were doing it together. Through this process, my child taught me.

Clarity.
My child continues to teach me that the path to meeting a goal is as unique as the person upon it.